NATO's New Strategic Concept — “Active Engagement, Modern Defense”

NATO SOF Core Missions (i.e., Military Assistance (MA), Special Reconnaissance (SR), Direct Action (DA)) provide solid basis for future NATO planning with respect to:

Contingencies and Mission Taskings calling for Legacy Skills and New Core Competencies within the context of

Article-5 Collective Defense Missions

Iran?

Russia?

New Taskings derived from Article-4 Crisis Consultations

C-WMD

CT/COIN

CP/Illicit Trafficking

Cooperative Security

Building Partner Capacities

Training of NATO and Partner SOF and Other (e.g. Police) Forces

NATO SOF and Preventive Planning

Pre-Crisis or Pre-Conflict Planning is Central to NATO's NSC

NATO SOF Can Facilitate and Leverage Comprehensive Approach
MA missions enhance capacity building in and outside of NATO
SOFFC promotes situational awareness and information-sharing

The NSHQ and its Deployable Component Command (SOCC) element offer SACEUR and SAC-T enormous potential:

For New Mission Taskings (e.g., Counter-WMD, with NATO's Combined Joint Chemical Biological Radiological and Nuclear Defense Task Force)

As a Basis for NATO/non-NATO Partner Collaboration

In Conjunction with NRF Force Generation and Crisis Deployments

And, with respect to Training and Education

SOF Lessons-Learned from Current Operations

Into the Future

NATO SOF Storyboard

Change Existing Perceptions of SOF (e.g., Capabilities and Gaps, Legacy Spetsnaz)

Differentiate from Conventional Forces (i.e., Where and How do SOF Fit?)

Optimize SOF Roles in New Mission Areas with Respect to:

- Collective Defense

- Crisis Management

- Cooperative Security

“Smart Defense” and Pooling of NATO SOF Aviation-Relevant Assets

- Creation of a Dedicated NATO SOF Air Component

- Establishment of a NATO SOF Air Education Program

NSHQ is a SOF Force Multiplier and Catalyst for Operationalizing NATO’s Comprehensive Approach
